

July 5, 2022

For immediate release:

Harbour Air announces service to Squamish, B.C.

With the completion of their newly constructed dock, Harbour Air is excited to announce that they can now provide service to the Squamish community. Located in the traditional territory of Sk̓wxwú7mesh Úxwumixw nation, Harbour Air's dock is located on the east side of the new Oceanfront Squamish development and will be available for pick-up and drop-off service when connecting to a seaplane flight.

"Having a safe, protected and dedicated seaplane dock to service the Squamish community has been a goal of the company for many years." Says Harbour Air CEO and Squamish resident, Greg McDougall. "Squamish is a community that is thriving but struggles with limited access due to frequent highway interruptions. We believe that having a travel option for locals, businesses and visitors will help Squamish continue to prosper."

With over 40 aircraft on the coast, Harbour Air will begin by offering on-demand flight service. From there, passengers can connect through on flights throughout Harbour Air's network of routes such as Victoria, Powell River, Seattle, Tofino, and Kelowna. They hope to also introduce year-round connection to Whistler via Squamish as well as regular scheduled flights between their flagship location in Downtown Vancouver's Coal Harbour and Squamish once construction of the oceanfront Squamish development is complete.

About Harbour Air

Founded in 1982 with two small seaplanes, Harbour Air is North America's largest seaplane airline — and the first to be fully carbon-neutral. The company's international seaplane service, which originally began as a service for the forestry industry in B.C., is now a quintessential west coast experience. Harbour Air offers up to 300 daily scheduled flights, scenic tours, adventure packages, and private flights. With 12 scheduled destinations connecting downtown Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle (WA), Nanaimo, Tofino, Whistler, Richmond (YVR South), Sechelt, Salt Spring Island, Kelowna, Maple Bay and Comox, B.C. born Harbour Air welcomes over 500,000 passengers every year. For more information on Harbour Air or the Squamish location, please visit www.harbourair.com or www.oceanfrontsquamish.com

Media Contact:

Meredith Moll
mmoll@harbourair.com